

Richard Butgereit
Director, Catastrophic Response GIC

Richard Butgereit is Director of Catastrophe Response at the Geospatial Insurance Consortium (GIC), a not-for-profit consortium between the insurance industry, National Insurance Crime Bureau, and Vexcel Imaging. After disasters, Richard leads collection of high-resolution aerial imagery to assist GIC members in claims processing and to fight against fraud. Recognizing the value of these images and benefits of cooperating with public safety stakeholders including federal, state, and local government and non-governmental organizations, GIC provides access to the images at no-cost and with no obligation to these stakeholders. Richard began this position in November 2018, coming from the Florida Division of Emergency Management, where he served as the Chief Information Officer for the Division and Technical Services Branch Chief for the Florida State Emergency Response Team. Richard is a graduate of New College, the Honors College of the State of Florida university system, and is a Geographic Information Systems Professional.
